a new sparkly sheen

Originally built in 1983, the hotel with 131 keys and typical amenities including a restaurant has been longing for inner rejuvenation and a fresh new look.

The dynamic architecture takes its idea from the foliage pattern of a tree through which the sun sparkles like little stars. This movement is reflected in the screen that weaves around the existing structure, filtering the bright Southern Californian sun during the day and transforming the interior lighting to a vibrant glow at night.
